Debbie Ryan

COURT COACH

2010 USA Basketball Women's Select Team

Basketball coaching staffs, was named as a court coach for the 2010 USA Select Team on April 8, 2010.

"It's always a great honor to be included with USA Basketball in any way," said Ryan, who led the Wahoos to a 21-10 mark in 2009-10 and the NCAA Tournament. "I think the world of the program and I've always been very, very proud to say that I've been able to coach for USA Basketball in my career.

"Obviously having the opportunity to be alongside Dawn is a tremendous honor and opportunity as well. I think Dawn has become the face of women's basketball in so many ways. I'm very, very proud of all she's accomplished and I think we'll have a lot of fun doing this together.

"Geno and I have been very good friends for years and I'm very proud of everything he's accomplished. He's been a juggernaut in our profession. Every time I see him doing something good, it always tugs at my heart. I feel very happy for him that he's getting all the recognition that he deserves through this part of his career. I'm really excited about this opportunity, being around such great players, such tremendous athletes and obviously very accomplished coaches. It's going to be a lot of fun."

The 2010 USA Select Team coaching assignment is Ryan's sixth USA Basketball head coaching nod. Most recently Ryan headed the 2003 USA Pan American Games Team, a squad comprised of the nation's top collegiate players, and after going up against seasoned international veterans, Ryan and the U.S. posted a 5-2 slate and earned the silver medal. She was also the head coach for the 2001 USA World University Games Team that won the gold medal, finished in seventh place at the 1989 U19 World Championship, earned a gold medal at the 1988 FIBA Americas U18 Championship and began her USA Basketball coaching career at the helm of the gold medal winning 1987 U.S. Olympic Festival West Team.

For her efforts at the 2001 World University Games, which included a hard-fought 87-69 gold medal victory against host China, Ryan earned USA Basketball Developmental Coach of the Year honors.

In addition to her USA Basketball coaching stints, Ryan served as a member of the USA Basketball Games Committee for Women and the USA Basketball Women's Player Subcommittee during the 1988-1992 quadrennium, helping to select athletes for numerous competitions including the 1990 World Championship and 1992 Olympic teams.

A 2008 Women's Basketball Hall of Fame inductee, Ryan in 33 years (1977-78 - present) at the helm of UVa owns a 720-308 record for a 70.0 winning percentage. Notching 28 postseason berths, including 20 consecutive NCAA Tournament appearances (1984-03), Ryan's teams have reached the Sweet Sixteen 12 times, made four Elite Eight appearances, three final fours (1990, 1991, 1992), and advanced to the 1991 NCAA Tournament championship game with Staley on the court. Additionally, Ryan's Wahoos have posted 31 winning seasons.

Ryan's sideline successes have not gone unnoticed. A seven-time recipient of the Atlantic Coast Conference Coach of the Year award, Ryan was also tabbed the 1986 and 1987 Converse District III Coach of the Year and 2000 WBCA Coach of the Year. In 1991, when she led the Wahoos to a 31-3 overall finish, a perfect 14-0 ACC record, and a trip to the NCAA title game, Ryan was selected the 1991 Naismith National Coach of the Year by the Atlanta Tip-Off Club. Additionally, she has been tabbed the Virginia state Coach of the Year four times (1981, 1995, 2000, 2002).

Ryan played collegiate basketball at Ursinus College (Pa.), where she earned her bachelor's degree in physical education in 1975. Ryan then attended Virginia, where she received her master's degree in physical education (1977) while working as an assistant basketball and field hockey coach before taking the reigns of the Cavaliers in 1977.

Dawn STALEY

COURT COACH

2010 USA Basketball Women's Select Team

University of South Carolina head coach Dawn Staley, a three-time Olympic gold medalist as a player and an assistant coach for the 2008 U.S. Olympic Team that garnered gold, was named as a court coach for the 2010 USA Select Team on April 8, 2010.

"It's going to be a tremendous honor working with Debbie," said Staley, who has been in South Carolina for two years and is in the process of building her USC program. "I have so much respect for her, for what she's done for my career and what she continues to do for young people who come through the UVa program. I was with her at UVa and I had a couple of opportunities to coach against her, going down to Virginia when I was at Temple, but coaching with her is something I never thought would ever happen. I'm glad it's going to happen on USA Basketball soil.

"It's going to be great coaching the USA Select Team. I once sat where they sat and for me, it's about giving back, letting them know what representing the United States is about. Whether it's one of these training camps or playing internationally at a tournament, it is a true privilege to put on a USA Basketball uniform. It's got to be played a certain way. I love the whole concept of playing USA Basketball because there's one common goal that everybody has to commit to, and everybody always does."

This appointment marks Staley's second as a head coach as she previously headed up the 2007 USA Pan American Games Team. Comprised of collegians, the '07 USA Pan Am squad went up against national teams preparing for the Olympic qualifying tournament that was held later that summer. She and the U.S. squad came away with a perfect 5-0 slate after stunning host Brazil in the gold medal contest. Staley, who began her USA Basketball career in 1989 as a member of the USA U19 World Championship Team, also served as an assistant coach for the 2006-08 USA Basketball Women's National Team and capped her three-year stint, that included a bronze medal in the 2006 FIBA World Championship and a gold in the 2007 FIBA Americas Championship, by aiding the U.S. to gold at the 2008 Olympic Games. In all, with Staley on the sideline, the 2006-08 USA National Team compiled a 34-3 record.

Staley, who stepped into her inaugural coaching role with USA Basketball in 2006, was certainly no stranger to the international game after being a fixture on USA teams nearly every year from 1989-2004. A two-time USA

Basketball Female Athlete of the Year (1994 and 2004), Staley was voted by all U.S. team captains in 2004 to carry the United States flag and lead the USA's delegation into the Athens Olympics Opening Ceremonies. Additionally, Staley was named the MVP at the '94 Goodwill Games and served on the USA Basketball Executive Committee as an athlete representative.

One of her more impressive international highlights as a player include being a member of the historic 1995-96 USA National Team that rolled up a 60-0 record, captured the 1996 Olympic gold medal and was named the 1996 USA Basketball and U.S. Olympic Committee Team of the Year.

Never one to turn away from a challenge, Staley beginning with the 2000-01 season took over a program at Temple University that had not seen a winning record since the 1989-90 squad went 16-15 and had never won the Atlantic 10 Conference Tournament. She turned the program around in her first season and went on to compile a 172-80 record (.683 winning percentage) slate in her eight years at the helm.

During her tenure in Philadelphia Staley led the Owls to six NCAA Tournaments in eight seasons, including each of the last five NCAA Tournaments, and earned a WNIT berth following her inaugural season.

She then was hired to coach at South Carolina and over the last two seasons, Staley has coached two All-Southeastern Conference selections and two unanimous SEC All-Freshman team selections. In her second season at South Carolina, Staley saw her team lift its Southeastern Conference record from 2-12 to 7-9. In 2009-10, South Carolina posted three wins over nationally-ranked teams for the first time since the 2002-03 season, during which the Gamecocks were also ranked for most of the campaign.
